ABOUT ZINA

Zina came to the United States 13 years ago from the beautiful Baltic Sea country of Lithuania. She first became interested in the health and beauty industry while working as a makeup artist and consultant in Beverly Hills and later in Newport Beach.

While she loved her work, she often felt she could do more good by helping people to nurture a beauty from the inside rather than conceal flaws on the outside.

She worked as a skincare instructor at Paul Mitchell—The Skin Academy. As a licensed aesthetician, she not only became fascinated with learning about the scientific properties behind the most effective skin care products, she also found herself drawn to an underlying eastern philosophy about what makes us healthy and what makes us happy.

Her conclusion:

True beauty should not just be seen, but felt.

Today, Zina mines from a range of resources. She has spent years experimenting with products to find what she believes are the best that science has to offer. In addition to becoming a skilled skin care therapist, she has also studied various massage techniques including deep tissue, hot stone therapy and Reiki. She offers meditation with every one of her treatments.

spaZina provides an environment that engages the clients senses through sight, sound, touch and smell, so that the experience might last beyond the hour or so one spends in a treatment room.

For Zina, a beautifully balanced body lies somewhere between the Western mind and the Eastern soul.
